

I respectfully request that the FCC not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Because I work from my home, I am even more aware of the number of solicitation calls that were made on a daily basis. Prior to Indiana's enactment of the Telephone Privacy law, I received a minimum of five calls per day, as early as 7 am and as late as 9pm. These calls were always unwelcome, and were always a disruption to my business and personal life.

Since the Indiana Telephone law was enacted, I have received only an occasional solicitation call. My personal and business life have been greatly improved without these harassing calls.

has improved your time at home.

--How effective Indiana's law has been (e.g., "I used to receive 12 calls per week, now I only receive one").

--Any of your personal views about the importance of Indiana's law.